Wild about Harry

New School Superintendent Dr. Harry Harutunian attended his first North Andover School Committee meeting this week.

Although there wasn't too much on the agenda, Harutunian made a great impression on some parents who made it to the meeting at middle school on a hot July night. Harutunian, who was known by students at his former job in Reading for his homework passes and Reading High pins, has already starting passing out Scarlet Knight pins.

Harutunian, who has said one of the most valuable tools as a superintendent is direct conversation with parents, teachers and students may not stop until every lapel in town is decorated with a small Scarlet Knight.

Public hearing

The North Andover Board of Selectmen, acting as the North Andover Licensing Commissioners, will hold a public hearing at the North Andover Senior Center, 120R Main St., on Tuesday, July 29, at 7 p.m., on the possible amendment of rules and regulations for entertainment licenses for adult entertainment establishments. A copy of the proposed amended rules and regulations are available for review in the town manager's office.

Tenants at large

Despite working out some kinks with the phone system, town officials are settling in nicely at the Osgood Street office where they will be posted for at least the next year while Town Hall is renovated. The Osgood Street setting, with no walls between many of the offices is reminiscent of the wall-less high school, built in the 1970s.

"It's been a pretty smooth transition overall," said Adele Johnson, Administrative Secretary to the Town Manager's office. "Like with every move, there have been a few glitches, but I think everything will be worked out shortly."

Town Agenda

The Board of Selectmen will meet Monday, July 28 at 7 p.m. in the meeting room at Stevens Memorial Library.
